NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

BANGOR,

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1837.

We hope that before this time that part of the President's Message containing the charge against the People who have been called upon to exercise their right of suffrage, since and during the extra session—of having sold their votes to the Banks has been referred to a special committee of Congress, with directions to investigate, and ascertain if the impeachment be true or false and report thereon.

The people are accused by their Chief Magistrate of having bartered their heritage for money. And this accusation stands recorded against them in the Archives of the Government They have a right to demand the proof. If it be true, Mr. Van Buren and his Administration may shew it to be so by the proper evidence If it be not true, the foul slander should be obliterated from the national record.

The Nantucket Inquirer gives an interesting account of a singular discovery made by the inhabitants of Guarmey, in the Province of Truxillo, on the coast of Peru. Capt. Ray, of the whale ship Logan, who has recently arrived at Nantucket from the South Seas, communicates the information. In the immediate vicinity of Guarmey, has been found the subterranean remains of a once populous city, which has probably been buried for ages the name and the fame of which have passed away, without leaving the slightest historical record, or even tradition. Capt. Ray visited the spot where the excavations had been made and were still in progress, and made personal examination of the ruins. Many human bodies, in a remarkable state of preservation have been taken from the city. The walls of many of the houses were still standing, some of them in a very perfect state. From the situation in which the bodies were found in the buried houses, it was apparent that the convulsion of the earth by which the people of this city were overwhelmed, burst upon them with as little warning as it did upon the inhabitants of ancient Herculaneum and Pompeii. The women are standing upon the same spot that, when in life, they stood centuries ago, with their hands in the bread trough, and the dough half kneaded or sitting with their distaffs and spindles, their garments half made and cloth half woven.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier:

Is it not time for the people to be moving in relation to the law of private attachments? Our Legislature will soon convene, and this all-important question should be submitted to them at an early date. If a petition should be drawn up, setting forth in concise terms the evils arising from the existing law, there would be no lack of signers. That this law should be repealed, and a substitute provided, is, without doubt, the general voice of

THE PEOPLE.

CANADIAN AFFAIRS.

We find the following items in the New York Commercial Advertiser:

UPPER CANADA.

There had been some alarm at Kingston, and precautionary measures had been taken, but no disturbance had occurred. Mr. Mackenzie was at Buffalo on the 11th, having escaped in disguise. He was received at the House of Dr. Chapin, in Buffalo, and was to address a meeting of the citizens on the 12th. The news of his presence made an immense sensation.

We learn from the Coburgh Star that the leading reformers in that place have denounced Mr. Mackenzie and his projects.

There is no truth in the report that the steamboat Traveller had been burned at Niagara.

The following account is from the Kingston Chronicle of the 9th:

We regret to learn that several gentlemen have fallen into the hands of the rebels. It appears that on Monday evening a party of six or eight gentlemen rode out on Young Street for the purpose of reconnoitering, when unfortunately some of them were taken prisoners, viz. Mr. Bellingham, Mr. Brock, and Mr. Achibald Macdonell, (formerly of Kingston.)

The history of Mr. Macdonell's capture, (says the Patriot) is thus related. He was in company with John Powell, Esq. when they were both stopped by four on horseback, one being Mackenzie, with "who goes there?" and were ordered to surrender on pain of being instantly shot dead. One of them drew a pistol and presented it at Mr. Powell, who instantly shot the rascal dead on the spot.

Mackenzie then snapped a pistol in Mr. Powell's face; and Powell presented another at him, which actually touched him, but unfortunately missed fire. Powell then spurred his horse toward a wood, slipped off, and escaped, with the loss of his horse, and is now here.

Col. Wells and his family, Col Cameron and his son, and Col. Stewart, are among the prisoners.

His Excellency, (says the Patriot) with the humanity becoming a brave British officer, and the representative of her Majesty, requested Dr. Rolph and Dr. Baldwin to visit the head quarters of the rebels, and to entreat of them in the name of mercy, to reflect on the miseries they were about by their rebellion, to inflict on their fellow subjects, and on themselves and families, and to desist from their evil purposes ere it was too late.

His excellency's appeal to their humanity, to their self love, and to their affection to their offspring and dependants, was as strong as eloquence and genuine feeling could make it. Doctors Rolph and Baldwin returned with a reply that the rebels would retire peaceably to their homes, provided his excellency would agree to have all differences settled by a convention. His excellency returned for answer "NEVER."

We find [illegible] Journal of the 11th. It is modest certainly, coming from a fugitive.

To the Editors of the Buffalo Whig and Journal:

Sirs The reformers of this part of Upper Canada have taken arms in defence of the principle of independence of European domination; in plain words, they wish this province to be a free, sovereign and independent state.

They [illegible] the [illegible] and skill which the free citizens of your republic may choose to afford. Laddies: this letter to your office, means you have expressed a friendly wish towards us in the Buffalo Whig. We are in arms near the city of Toronto. 2 Lx miles distant. Your faithful servant,

W. L. MACKENZIE.

[From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser of Thursday.]

UNLAWFUL SEIZURE A little more than a year ago, about 500 stand of arms were sent to this city, from the State Arsenal, at Batavia. 140 of these were deposited, some time since, in the Court House, whence they were, clandestinely taken by means of a forcible entry last night and carried to Black Rock, and are now in possession of the Patriot force assembled at that Place.

The Sheriff of the county has repaired to the rendezvous, for the purpose of making a formal demand for the arms. What the issue will be we have yet to learn.

There can be but one opinion in relation to this outrage. The enrolling and embodying of volunteers for the Canada service on this side, is a misdemeanor, severely punishable by our laws, but when to this are added acts of lawless violence, such as seizing upon arms, the property of the State, and menacing of persons who resist similar depredations, it is high time for the proper authorities to interfere.

P. S Since the above was in time, we have been informed that the Sheriff has obtained possession of the arms, and brought them back to the city.

A ship from the Savannah Georgian contains the following intelligence from Florida, corroborating the news we published yesterday:

IMPORTANT FROM FLORIDA.

By the arrival of the steamers Camden, Captain Dimond, and James Adams, Captain Chase, from the St Johns, we learn that on Tuesday last, Micanopy and Cloud, the last nephew of Sam Jones, came in to Fort Mellon, with about 20 warriors, and surrendered themselves.

Another informant states that Micanopy, Jumper, Tigertail, Tuskego, Cloud, Co-a-hadjo, and Yahaloche, had come in with about 30 Indians men, women and children. Gen. Jesup arrived at Black Creek on Thursday from Fort Mellen, and, it is said, presumes the war is at an end. Runners had been sent to Sam Jones, and to the Indians generally, to come in, and three to ten days were allowed them.

FORT MELLON, (Lake Monroe,) Dec. 3

I have only time to drop a few lines, I must therefore say a great deal in a few words: At six o'clock this evening Micanopy, Little Cloud, Sam Jones's nephew, and twenty select warriors came into camp, with Co-a had jo and the Cherokees, who went out on Tuesday last, to hold a talk with them. They brought their arms, &c. with them. Co-a-had-jo also brought his wife and three children in.

Sam Jones has authorised Micanopy and the other chiefs to act for him, and that he will agree to any thing they may determine on; he will await a message from Micanopy, when he and his people will come in. This looks a little more like a termination of the war than any thing I have yet seen or heard.

The army received orders to-day to march at day-light to-morrow; but I think Gen. Jesup will countermand the order to-night, in consequence of the arrival of these Indians. More anon.

LATEST FROM TEXAS.

We received yesterday a paper from Houston, dated the 2d instant, brought by Captain Wright of the steam packet Columbia. The Columbia made the run from Velasco to the South West Pass in the short space of thirty hours.

The Columbia brought a crowd of passengers from Texas. The Constitution, Capt. Auld, also arrived yesterday. She left Galveston Bay on the 2d. inst. and believed well during her trip.

We give below all the extracts of interest furnished by these two arrivals.

The Houston Telegraph of the 2d is clothed in mourning, for in that paper the fact is announced, that Deaf Smith is dead!

He died at Fort Bend on the 30th November His iron frame, says the Telegraph, sunk under severe fatigues and exposures, to which he had too willingly subjected himself. This singular individual was one of those few men whose names alone, bear with them more respect than sounding titles. Major, Colonel, General, sink into insignificance before the simple, ordinary name of Deaf Smith; that name is identified with the battle-fields of Texas, his eulogy is inseparably interwoven with the thrilling annals of that country, and will long yield to their traditionary narratives a peculiar interest.

The Texan Congress was in session on the 2d inst. It was expected to adjourn in a few days. Resolutions had been passed granting letters of marque and reprisal, and every act of this body seems to portend further difficulties with Mexico. An act has been passed to augment the navy of the country and an appropriation for that purpose.

The financial affairs of Texas are rather unsettled. It was hoped that Congress would do something to place the credit of the new republic on a sure and sound basis. An officer of government had gambled away $3000 of the public funds. The Texan people think more of fighting just now than they do of riches, and the future stability of their government. Many eyes bend toward the walls of Mexico, and the prevailing feeling is domain and conquest.

The health of President Houston is very bad. He is suffering greatly from a wound received while fighting the battles of his country.

A private letter from St. Petersburgh mentions the following occurrence, which took place there a few months ago, and excited a good deal of amusement. The Emperor was driving along in his caleche, when he met with a young Russian, a merchant, who was a most ineffable fop. Amused with the novelty of his appearance, he drove up to him, politely accosted him and invited him into his carriage. The dandy, feeling highly flattered by the Emperor's notice, immediately accepted the invitation, and was driven off to the palace, where he was exhibited to the Empress for her amusement, as if he had been a dancing-dog, or a monkey. This treatment had such an effect on the nerves of the Russian beau, that it was several days before he recovered from the shock. [English paper]

A PROPHECY John Quincy Adams closed his late speech in Congress, at the Extra Session, with the following prophetic truths:

"This measure, (the sub-treasury scheme) too [illegible] alarming for scornful derision, so absurd that it was impossible to believe it proposed with sincerity, so terrible to the futurity of this nation, if really sincere, after floating triumphantly, to its passage from the Department, through the Senate into this House, has this day, by a timid and almost despairing resistance, been deferred to the winter session, for the scary to go home and feel the pulse of the democracy of numbers. With the winter session it will come back. * * * That it will ever receive the sanction of this House, may a merciful heaven forbid! In the interval, at least, I will cherish the hope of better things, and catch every gleam of brighter prospects to illumine the darkness of the coming year."

CONGRESS.

The letter from our correspondent, published on Saturday, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, leaves little to be supposed of Friday's proceedings. After the letter referred to was closed, Mr. Adams moved that when this House adjourn, it adjourn until Monday next. The motion prevailed.

APPLICATION OF REV. MR. WOLFF FOR THE HALL.

Mr. Adams rose, and said that he had been requested by the Rev. Mr. Wolff, now in this city, to ask for the use of the Hall, at 11 o'clock tomorrow, for the purpose of delivering a public lecture therein. Doubtless, remarked Mr Adams, the name of this gentleman was familiar already to every gentleman on that floor. He was one of the most extraordinary men living on the earth at this time. He was originally a Jew, and, after the most profound investigation of the Scriptures, and a patient and assiduous comparison of the old and new Testaments, he had been brought, by the aid of a most powerful intellect, to the conviction of the truth of the Christian revelation. To the propagation of that gospel throughout the world he had ever since been devoting all his powers. In the language of Bishop Heber,

"From Greenland's icy mountains,
From India's coral strand,
Where Afric's sunny fountains
Roll down o'er golden sand,
From many a balmy stream and river,
From many a palmy plain,
They call us to deliver
Their land from error's chain!"

Sir, said Mr. A., to this call this applicant has responded. He has visited every part of the world, in which his eloquence, his zeal, his untiring zeal and influence could make themselves felt in the propagation of Christian knowledge; and now, in pursuance of his great design, he has come to our own shores, and in lectures; in sermons, and in society, has already made much progress in its accomplishment. Mr. A. said that he had heard one of these lectures in one of the churches in this city, in which the reverend gentleman had detailed the course of his adventures, which had been of the most deeply interesting and romantic character; and a more profound, closely reasoned, and convincing argument upon the proofs of Christianity, than that contained in the lecture to which he alluded, it had never been his lot to listen to.

Mr. A. thought that the object was one deserving of that consideration at the hands of the House which he had requested; and he did not anticipate that there would be any well founded objection offered to the proposition.

Mr. Dawson, of Georgia, asked if it was not unusual for the House to adjourn over a working day, for any other purpose than the business of the nation?

Mr. Adams reminded the gentleman that the House had already resolved to adjourn over until Monday, and that to-morrow would not therefore be a working day. The two motions will be found, distinct from each other upon the journals.

The Chair observed that such would be the form of entering the two motions upon the journals.

The motion of Mr. Adams was then adopted.

The following account, by the correspondent of the New York American, of Mr. Reed's significant remarks in the House on Friday, will be perused with interest by our readers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16th, 1837.

The Committee of Ways and Means are much mistaken if they suppose the subject has been settled with their manifesto in the Globe. It is evident that other members less patient than Mr. Fletcher, will resume the affair, and convince said committee that even the Whigs know the way, and have the means of defending their cause, and of exposing the secret places of corruption, though their pathway be strewn with flowers, to turn aside the simple ones and deceive the unwary.

Yesterday, Mr. Reed made some bitter comments on the degeneracy and tameness of the Administration party in the House. He contrasted, in a striking manner, the purity of the time of Washington, with the base subserviency of the present day to Executive power. He said it was well known that, in those days the Committees of the House were composed, as they always should be, of equal numbers of each party; whereas, now, all the committees were appointed by the Speaker, so as to insure a majority of the President's friends, and thus adopt or reject what measures they thought proper. It was for that reason that A. was struck off, and B. put on this and that committees that the plans of the Executive might be carried into effect.

Mr. R. traced in glowing colors the consequences which had and would result from such political juggling and artful manœuvering. He showed how a report on the most important subjects might be thus shaped in conformity with Executive will, or if instructions were received to that effect, how the reports might be kept back, or entirely suppressed, as circumstances might require. He then adverted to the humiliating conduct of the Chairman and other members of the Ways and Means, in permitting themselves to be advised and dictated to by the Secretary of the Treasury and the President, as to what bills they should present, or what resolutions they should report. He said it had not used to be so "lang syne" when the Legislative branch watched that of the Executive, with the greatest jealousy, instead of submitting to receive suggestions, and bills already drafted from that quarter.

Mr. Cambreleng endeavored to explain away the imputation, by intimating that the Committee had requested the advice of the Secretary.

So much the worse then, said Mr. Reed, for a Committee pretending to represent the people, applying for advice from the Executive, to the course they should pursue. He contended that the people were not represented by the Committee of Ways and Means, as the most casual observer might see, when the majority was all on one side.

Mr. Cambreleng made no reply, no doubt recollecting the old proverb "in silence there is safety."

After some sharp skirmishing between other members, the [illegible]

The Rev. Mr. Wolff, Missionary to the Jews, delivered a lecture at the Capitol this morning, on the subject of his travels in Palestine. It was, as usual, highly interesting.

The weather is extremely severe, and the winds are waltzing o'er the hills, and whistling "Van Buren's Farewell" most melodiously.

On Monday, Mr. Evans, of Maine, will introduce a bill relating to the North Eastern Boundary line of the United States. It will probably bring up the Canadian question

DEAD LETTERS. The following astonishing fact is mentioned in the report of the Postmaster General, viz that the number of dead letters returned to the general post office is 900,000 annually.

The obvious irony of the following extract from a communication in the Eastern Argus on the recent Treasury Report concerning the Bloodhoo, has lately spoken of Mr. Woodbury in the same strain. Some harm must surely be intended to that worthy.

"This admirable paper will be read with attention and respect. It exhibits the same ability and elaborateness which characterise all Mr. Woodbury's public documents. The fidelity and correctness with which this gentleman has uniformly discharged his difficult and responsible duties richly entitle him to the praise and gratitude of the community."

ANOTHER EXPERIMENT. Another item to the thousand and one arbitrary measures of the Government at Washington, is the sudden and wanton closing of the U. S Navy Yard at Philadelphia, by which 500 laborers are, at this inclement season, thrown out of employ. Much excitement is caused by it in the city, and a public meeting took place on Friday evening last to petition Congress for redress. The Philadelphians have been punished pretty severely for their Whig Principles. The great ship was sent away from them, and now comes this injury added to insult.

GENERAL WASHINGTON. The remains of this illustrious man, the father and saviour of his country, were recently placed in the sarcophagus made by Mr. Strothers of this city, from which we learn, that when the vault and coffin were opened, the sacred form of Washington was discovered in a wonderful state of preservation. The high pale brow wore a calm and serene expression; and the lips pressed still together, had a grave and solemn smile, such as they doubtless wore, when the first President gave up his blameless mortal life, for an immortal existence.

"When his soft breath, with pain,
Was yielded to the elements again."

The impressive aspect of the great departed, overpowered the man whose lot it was to transfer the hallowed dust to its last tenement, and he was unable to conceal his emotions. He placed his hand upon the ample forehead, once highest in the ranks of battle or throbbing with the cares of an infant empire; and he lamented, we doubt not, that the voice of fame could not provoke that silent clay to life again, or pour its tones of revival into the dull cold ear of death. The last acts of patriotic sepulture were thus consummated, and the figure, which we can scarcely dissociate from an apotheosis, consigned to its low dim mansion, to be seen no more until mortal shall put on immortality, and the bright garments of endless corruption.

THE BEGGAR OF ST. SEVERIN. About eleven or twelve years ago a lady, accompanied by a young girl, evidently suffering from illness, was in the daily habit of attending mass at the church of St. Severin, in Rouen. On leaving the church she always gave a trifle to a poor beggar who was regularly stationed at the church door, and the child likewise deposited her offering in his hand entreating the benefit of his prayers for her recovery. This continued for several years, till at length one day the beggar disappeared, and no one knew what had become of him. Some days ago a wedding was celebrated at Rouen. M. P. a wealthy landholder, was about to receive the hand of Mdlle Anatesio L. an amiable and accomplished young lady, but whose family had been reduced in consequence of the event of 1830. The notary was on the point of offering the pen to the bride and bridegroom preparatory to their signing the contract of marriage, when a stranger, of rather rustic appearance, entered the room The stranger, without further ceremony, placed 200,000 francs in bank notes on the table, and said, addressing the notary, "write, sir, that Mdlle Anatesie brings her husband a dowry of 30,000 francs. The beggar at St. Severin is come to return to his benefactress the money that she lent him." An explanation soon took place With the money collected at the church door, the beggar had been able to purchase a piece of land, and by dint of industry and perseverance in his habits of economy, he had gradually become a wealthy man "But never," he said, did I pass a day without thinking of my benefactress; I knew she was not rich, I heard she was to be married and I have brought her my boquet." It need scarcely be added that the grateful mendicant became an honored guest at the ensuing wedding festivity.

POST BOYS AND DONKEYS.—"Was you ever called in," enquired Sam, glancing at the driver, after a short silence, and lowering his voice to a mysterious whisper, "was you ever called in yen you was 'prentice to a sawbones, to visit a postboy?" "I don't remember that I ever was," replied Bob Sawyer. "You never see a postboy in that ere hospital as you walked, (as they say o' the ghosts) did you?" demanded Sam. "No," replied Bob Sawyer, "I don't think I ever did." "Never know'd a churchyard where there was a postboy's tombstone, or see a dead postboy, did you?" enquired Sam, pursuing his catechism. "No," rejoined Bob, "I never did." "No," rejoined Sam triumphantly, "nor never will; and there's another thing that no man ever see' that's a dead donkey, 'cept the gent'm'n in the black silk smalls, as know'd the young 'ooman as kept a goat; and that was a French donkey, so werry like he warn't one o' the regular breed." "Well, what has that [illegible] to do with the postboy?" [illegible] replied Sam; "without goin' so far as to assert, as some very sensible people do, that postboys and donkeys is both immortal, wot I say is this this—whenever they feels themselves getting stiff and past their work, they just rides off together, you postboy to a pair, in the usual way; wot becomes on 'em nobody knows, but it's werry probable as they starts away to take their pleasure in some other world, for there aint a man alive as ever see either a donkey or a postboy a-takin' his pleasure in this [Pickwick papers.

THE STANDARD SYSTEM FOR CUTTING GARMENTS, BASED STRICTLY ON MATHEMATICAL PRINCIPLE.

THE subscriber has invented and patented an apparatus which he calls the Standard Measure for the use of Tailors.

With this instrument measures can be taken of the body in such a way as to apply on the cloth and draft garments upon Mathematical principle that will fit the shape measured, be that shape what it may.

The standard system, which is based on the principle is published by the inventor in Boston, a quarterly Periodical entitled "The Tailors' Guide and Quarterly Review of Fashions."

The inventor will be in this city in a few days when the trade will have an opportunity of seeing the work wherein the principles of the system are fully explained and illustrated

The above patent apparatus can have no better recommendation than the following. It was exhibited at the late fair held in Boston by the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, and a committee appointed by the managers of the board to examine and judge of its merits, who were tailors, say of it, that it is a new invention and that they think it will prove useful to the trade. A Diploma was awarded to the inventor.

To the Hon. the Senate and House of Representatives, in Legislature assembled,

THE undersigned beg leave to represent that a Boom from Ayer's Island, at Stillwater, to extend up and across the main Penobscot River through a portion of Ayer's Falls to the eastern shore, would greatly accommodate and advantage the Mills and those interested in the manufacture of lumber at that place, and in case of injury to the boom above or the escape of logs or other lumber, would afford to the owners and others great facilities in the preservation of their property and save to the community a large amount of property which now annually passes down said river into tide waters, or below the mills where they can be safely and advantageously manufactured.

Wherefore we pray your hon. body to grant us an Act of Incorporation, with such immunities and restrictions as may seem just and as will subserve the interests aforesaid. And as in duty bound will ever pray.

WILLIAM SMYTH, and others.

COLLECTOR'S NOTICE.

TAXES MUST BE PAID

MANY of the good people of this City have had "line upon line, and precept upon precept," by way of polite and pressing invitations, to pay their taxes. The strong language of the Assessor's Warrants for the year 1837, as committed to me, will not allow of further parley or delay. Every resident of the city, who has not yet paid his tax, is earnestly called upon to neglect no longer this necessary and important duty, as in such matters "delays are dangerous."

Non Residents should look out in order that the Collector does not make too great a profit in advertising and selling their lands for taxes of 1837. The only way to prevent this is, by calling immediately and paying the same.

☞ The Collector will be at the City Hall from 9 to 10 A. M. and from 2 to 3 o'clock, P. M.

JOHN LANG, (Collector of Bangor, 1837.)

NEW AND VALUABLE SCHOOL BOOK!

THE attention of School Committees, Teachers and Parents, is invited to the examination of the "JUVENILE READER," a selection of easy Reading Lessons, by a Teacher, a new edition of which, revised and corrected, we have just published. It is believed that the book is one which has been very much wanted in our common schools, and indeed it was compiled at the request of many of our best Teachers. The compiler is a gentleman of known abilities, and long experience in his profession. The pieces in this book, are chiefly selected from popular works designed for youth, and it is believed, will have a healthy moral influence in those schools in which it is adopted. The book comes at a very low price and has been adopted in a great many Schools with decided approbation, and having been stereotyped, is free from the danger of having any alterations made in it, which is the greatest trouble with all school books.

Those connected with schools, or interested in any manner, are requested to call and examine it.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS.

Decidedly the most popular remedy ever known in America!

VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM. The following recommendation is from Dr. Jacob Myers:

Extract of a letter from Dr. Jacob Myers.

"The Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam has been sold in this country for two years, and the medicine has gained an uncommon celebrity, for it scarcely in one instance failed of having the desired effect. I am by no means in favor of the many nostrums, most of which are impositions upon a credulous public, but that which I know by experience to be effectual, I cannot help but give my approbation thereto. A counterfeit preparation has been offered here by a travelling agent of Comstock, N. Y., and there is also another article vended here that is strongly suspected to be spurious.

JACOB MYERS, M. D.
Mifflinton, Juniata co., Penn. May 3, 1837."

 Many new and highly interesting certificates may be examined on the bill of directions.

☞ There are many counterfeit preparations, assuming wholly or in part the name of the original and true V. P. Balsam.

The true article is signed Sampson Reed, on the label to each bottle. Price 50 cts.

The above article is for sale by G. W. HOLDEN, Bangor. nov13 4m

HARD-WARE---FOR CASH.

THE extensive and valuable stock of the late Importing House of W. & G. TUCKERMAN, No. 90, Milk street, is offered for sale for cash.

This stock embraces almost every article in the trade, both of English and American manufacture. The British goods were bought with money, at the lowest cash discounts, and comprise such an assortment as is rarely to be met with. Wholesale dealers in the trade, in this season of non-importation, may here be enabled to replenish their shelves with goods at very low rates; and the country merchant may supply his wants at prices at which goods cannot now be imported and sold.

Included in this Stock are Sanderson's Brothers & Co's Cast Steel; James's Wood Screws; Hill's Anvils; a fine assortment of Files and Rasps; Locks, Hinges and Tools; spring and table Cutlery; Philadelphia Mill and Pit Saws; Brass Kettles, baled and unbaled, in large and small sets, and embracing all sizes.

The Southern and Western Merchant will find in this stock Log and Trace Chains; Carolina Hoes; Grone and Sledge Hammers; Narrow Axes, of first quality; Hooks and Hinges, Seine Twine; Rifles and Fowling Pieces; Manilla and Hemp Cordage, &c. &c.

Purchasers with money will find strong inducements to make their Autumn selection from this rich and valuable stock. aug30

NEW-ENGLAND HOUSE,
BANGOR, MAINE.

THE Subscriber respectfully informs his friends and the public that he has removed from the Franklin House to the new and elegant house lately erected at the corner of Harlow and Franklin streets, about six rods north of the Franklin House. He tenders his sincere thanks to the public for their liberal patronage last year at the Franklin House, and solicits the continuation of it in his present situation, pledging himself to attend personally to the wants of those who may call on him, and employing none but good and faithful servants. He will endeavor to make his house equal to any in this city. The New England House is much larger than the Franklin House, which enables him to accommodate a much larger company than he could in his former situation. There is a stable attached to the House, furnished with the best of hay and grain. Ostlers equal to any in the State. Also Horses and Carriages of all descriptions, for the accommodation of those who may wish to hire. A Carriage will always be in readiness to take passengers to and from the boat.
